Sarah Sage is a paralegal in Best Best & Krieger's Trusts & Estates group. Sarah has worked in the legal field for over 20 years. At the start of her career, she worked extensively in litigation and as a trial paralegal. Most recently, she has focused on estate planning, trusts and probates.

Sarah began her career working for a sole practitioner where she learned best practices in client-centric work and communications. This client-centric mindset is today one of Sarah's core values, as she has continued on in her roles serving both large corporations and individuals. She strives to work as a team with her attorneys while bringing the best work product and customer service possible to her clients.

While concentrating on estate planning and probates, Sarah has had the opportunity to assist clients with tax planning, complex family dynamics and emotional post death processes. Working with clients through each of these phases allows her to see the big picture while also working through the details.

Sarah lives in Washington with her husband, two stepsons and two black labs. She enjoys everything outdoors, including hiking, biking, skiing and paddle boarding. When the weather doesn't allow for these activities, she can be found with a cup of coffee and a good book or playing a board game with her family.
